INVINCIBLE

Invincibles! We'll be at Image Expo July 2nd and San Diego Comic Con July 18th-21st! Stop by and give Kirkman a hug!

HA! You're the funniest, Mackiewicz! Letter time!

Mr. Kirkman,

I have spent the last couple of weeks catching up on invincible after the chrome issue #100 caught my eye. When I saw that 100 issue and that shiny cover with mark and dinosaurs I just had to see what invincible was about. I just finished reading 101 and I have to say

INVINCIBLE IS THE GREATEST COMIC BOOK I HAVE EVER READ!!!!!!!!!!!! Holy CRAP!!!!

This comic has become my number one comic, I love it more than Spider-man and Batman!!! Every character is amazing, I love the story, invincible is the shit!!! It reminds me of Dragonball Z for some reason lol. Please bring back DINOSAURUS!!! He's probably my favorite character next to Mark and Rex Robot! PLEASE PLEASE PLEASE BRING HIM BACK :D!!! Either way keep up the great work, I love everything about this book, it truly has made a difference in my life!!!! Im so excited to see what happens next but in the mean time im going to start walking dead!!! thank you for creating such a great story and amazing characters, INVINCIBLE IS TRULY THE GREATEST SUPERHERO IN THE UNIVERSE!!!

John Resngit

Dragonball Z! Actually, we're going to put a pin in this discuss for just one more letter...even if you're desparate to hear tales of Robert bragging about his Majin Buu cosplay...

I don't know what that is! Hey, John! Thanks for writing! I love exclamation points, too!

Are you a Dragon Ball fan? I'm not. So when my boyfriend explained to me what the show was about, it basically had the same concept as Invincible. Maybe more Omni Man related... Alien, comes to earth, his friends want to conquer it, there some character like Alien the Alien, mates with a human, has a super kid, his alien friends doesn't wanna conquer anymore, bigger bad guys out there.

Just wondering...

p.s.: SEX SEX SEX! See what it does to you kids? Young pregnancy! And shes clinging on Zandale pretty tight there. 00000H

I asked Robert about the similarities to DBZ when I first started... and he has never seen the show. Anti-climactic, right? How about some Invincible wall scrolls, though, huh?

I really need to watch it just so I know what the heck people are talking about.

Dear Invincible Team,

Invincible 101 seems like a great start for whats to come! This is the first time ever writing to a comic book team, or any team for that matter, ever. I started reading comic books last year and I got into Invincible over the summer after hearing that it was good, and boy was it awesome.

Catching up with the universe actually made my summer (and a bit of the fall) better. You guys brought back the colorful heroes with the fun names (Atom Eve, Rex Splode, Dupli-Kate, Multi-Paul) while everyone else seems to be trying to be more "dark" and "gritty". Your books really made me enjoy reading them. It takes me about 40-60 minutes to read a comic book, so it took a huge chunk of my day to read a trade, but I always made time for them after work because it was the highlight of my day. I read Tech-Jacket first, then some Invincible, then Capes and Brit, then some Invincible and then Wolf-Man and Invincible Presents and then more Invincible and Guarding the Globe. Brit and Capes became my favorite. There is just something about an old guy fighting dinosaurs and giant yetis that is cool. I also like all those random characters from Capes (guy that shoots colorful balls FTW!) So, I guess I just wanted to say "Thank You". I've tried to read many different comics after getting into the game kind of late (I'm only 20 but a lot of people start reading when they are younger) and yours have been the only ones that have made me care about characters on a page. When Brit was trying to stop his brother from crushing his son it was such a "heart-moment". So thank you for actually doing comics that are more than worth the time and the money. To finish off my first ever letter I have one question, speaking of Wolf-Man, Capes, Brit, Tech-Jacket, and now Guarding the Globe (since that has passed as well) have you ever thought of bringing any of the books back in the future? I know you got Invincible Universe loaded in the docking bay, but I just wanted to know what you guys thought, because, you know, you guys are "The Invincible Team."

We've definitely thought of it. Now, if I said you'd see a special something from one of those titles by the end of the year, what would you say?

And one more question (I lied, it's not like you guys never lied before) how are you all doing? Because I know you have lives of your own outside of this letter column, I hope.

Best Wishes, Robert G.

We get to work on comic books every day of our lives. No complaints here.

To the Invincible team,

I decided to write you guys to let you know that Invincible is an official part of my very new yearly tradition which happens to fall on April 1st. April 1st, 2011 was the first April fools day during which no one tried to play a prank on me. This is because on that day I was having a life saving bone marrow transplant because of Cancer. To celebrate my anniversary, I decided that in addition to buying myself stuff, I would relax and spend the day doing things that helped me through the hospital visits and the long recovery process (which is still going on). One of those things was your brilliant comic. I read a lot of great comics but Invincible is one of the special ones that really makes everything around you disappear and immerses you in a more interesting world, or in my case, a less painful one. Thanks for that.

Your loyal fan,
Tanner

P.S. If you have room, even if this has to be in there instead of the letter, can you please let the people know that they can save a life just by registering with marrow.org. No blood draw, just a cheek swab they do themselves at home and you might be the match someone like me needs to survive!

Sign up, folks, and help guys like Tanner. Good luck, man. Stay strong. We're glad to help out in any way we can.

Thanks for sharing, man. It's stories like that that make us feel like we're not spending our lives having fake people punch holes through walls. It's good to know this book means as much (or even more) to its fans as it does to us.

Next month... Invincible gets a taste for Invincible! And while you're here, turn the page and check out the preview of Skybound's newest series, GHOSTED.

-Sean Mackiewicz

GHOSTED!! We're running a preview for GHOSTED?! That book is AWESOME. Check it out, folks. We'll see you back here next month!
